

By Shomit Sirohi

Introduction

All of this is concentric theories of international finance and EU finance and even processes of capital and even finally forms of developments which are then mainly also about the politics mainly of democracy – with Biden winning in America and Democrats forming there – to democracy at work in Europe as well – beyond economics – there is in fact Spanish Catalan protests, and Syriza and Greek protests and even Macron's protests which then is the actual meaning of Black Lives Matter protests in America and Arab democratic protests there – I call this Poulantas to argue that even India is protesting – this is what we call in the C.m.p the abstract tendency of spontaneous class struggle being the real news. Which forecasts as well the left winning because in fact there is PCF as well among those protests and this then is the liberal process of in fact the Communist countries and especially Cuba becoming important – including Latin American protests which is the popular unity there which is then how in fact the previous crisis of right wing and far right politics is now a contour which is possible if the left goes into crisis – which is the forecast of the next elections perhaps going liberal as well – we do not know this yet – we think it is a period of protests as Hobsbawm would argue.

I. The structural forms of – Nunes, Spain as an Example in Europe

In fact there is a fiscal budget which then plans the economic plan in Spain, by Nunes which then is based on the mixed economic formation of public sector and capitalist dynamics which then is also within the general plan of Europe and seems to be the plan in Greece and perhaps Italy as also more dynamic in France.

II. America, Europe and India – the structural formalism of World Bank and IMF, with EU for Europe

In fact this globalization model then is also the process from the 1990s to the present of structural adjustments on India for more privatization which then is also public sector efficiency which becomes also finally World Bank led development by a fiscal deficit and loan borrowing which then is serviced by the deficit. The recent budget in India pronounced a financial educational structure again.

III. Arab and Latin American worlds – the process of state capital or public capital

In fact then there is also a New Left and Arab socialism which has gone towards the state or public capital plan and is much like what was called 21st century Socialism, not the actually existing 20th century socialism – which means a new type of socialism in Latin America – with Arab socialism winning after the recent intifadas of Arab Spring, and the Iraq revolt and even forms of Palestinian intifada again. Iran has a public sector model with small business and department store formalism which includes high cinema practices.